

Hearts & Arrows

Nowherebound

Hearts & Arrows

Itâ€™s your heart, not the arrows
Itâ€™s your back, not the blade
Itâ€™s your will, not its power
That will live for today

Said a no-good raspy rummy hereâ€™sitting next to me

You can love one and others,
You can wander with none,
You can raise up your voice,
You can swallow your tongue.

Said the manic, up and downer hereâ€™too stoned for all to see

Well you can win or you can lose it all each deal
While sticks and stones carve scars that one day heal

We can choose to lose our hearts
To the arrows and the darts
Or let â€™em take their beatingâ€™
And beat right back to the start.

We can all kill each other
We can all live in peace
Succumb to warâ€™s sickness
Or cure the disease

Said an armchair politicianâ€™to his teleprompt TV

Be Kane or be Abel
Rob Peter for Paul
In this Garden of Eden
You canâ€™t save them all

Said a pragmatic preacherâ€™to his existential sheep
