

To Them These Streets Belong

Rise Against

So look in my eyes
What will you leave behind once you've gone?
So precious
You got what you came
For now I think its time to move on
Wooh Wooh yeah
But these ghosts come alive like water
And wine and walk through these streets
Singing songs and carrying signs
To them these streets belong
My atonement lasts the best part of eternity
Ran out of hands to count to sin that breeds inside of me
Not this hate but the loneliness has left me here into this mess of
My hands are soaking in the blood of angels
On broken wings they collapse
Will I see the break of day
Dark clouds exploded and torrents of rain fell
All these lost halos wash away
Head hung from shame we bear a weight that brings me to a crawl
These years of longing to tell of decades of unanswered calls
For a change, 'cause everyday we slip and fall
Kicked while were down, our fists clench into ball
My hands are soaking in the blood of angels
On broken wings they collapse
Will I see the break of day
Dark clouds exploded and torrents of rain fell
All these lost halos wash away

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>