Push Me Pull You

Candypants

When I think of my life revolving around you
While I know it's no life, I'm still glad I found you
My delight in each crumb of attention you drop embarrasses me too
But I just can't stop
I push me pull you my way

All alone in a daydream, in love and happy
Then I open my eyes, see you laughing at me
So you try to pretend that I'm in on the joke
Oh, I know you're my friend, but I thought I could hope
And push me pull you my way

What I want now is a better way to be
See you somehow stuck behind me

Finally there's a morning when I don't hear you
But then without warning, you want me near you
You give me a new, tiny reason to stay
And all I can do now is wait for the day
You push me pull you away
