

My Love

Bebo Norman

My love, will you take my hand and run?
'Cause my love, can't you see that we have just begun
When she walks into a room the whole world freezes
To watch her spin just like the wind above the ground
She won't break into your heart
She just eases without a sound
My love is deeper than the darkness of my soul
And my love has the habit of forgetting to let go
And the crowd was pressing in like perfect strangers
That was the day I felt her hand slip out of mine
She looked at me, I don't think she even wavered
As she waved goodbye, she did not cry but she waved goodbye
