

Dark Horse

Bella Ruse

I woke up, and down the steps
I ran into your arms
Your clean white dress
Your hair a mess
Blue brilliant alarms
Into my ears and it's Something worth seeing
When you turn your eyes to me
Tell me, babe, do you believe in everything you see?
Believe in me

That's love (x3)

I descended into you
Like ships into the sea
In a maze of Altercade
I hoped that you would leave
Me hanging on to something worth believing
Like comic Aristophanes
When you're down, I'll lift you up
And dig deep into you
And fill you up with me

That's love (x3)

You were the dark horse
On which I rode
I gave you my sword and shield
Myself exposed
To witness an honest man
With honest deeds
Fallen on his bloody knees
God has chosen all but me
And I have chosen you

Yes, I have chosen you
That's love
