The Watchman

Seth Lakeman

Innocence is hurting, a world speaks out of tune
Promise calls and promise falls, what are we to do?
With a clouded view, you follow me throughSadly the tides are changing, my world slips out of you
Your body falls, my body calls, what are we to do?
With a clouded view, you follow me through, follow me throughMy life's turning pages, I see a promised day
Watchmen never age here, they just sleep in vain
Drowning people stare here, they don't care to call
I rebury the pages, Kthulhu callsYou'll see, you'll see her when she starts to form
You'll see, you'll see her when she starts to callIn the name of Jesus Christ, won't you fear my name?
I've been around since Moses, your preacher never cameYou'll see, you'll see her when she starts to form
You'll see, you'll see her when she starts to callFollow me
You sleep, you sleep, you sleep
You sleep and see me
Follow me
You sleep, you sleep, you sleepIt's just another day, remember, I'm calling for you Lord
(Remember)
Just another day, remember, she's calling for you
Just another day, Kthulhu, I am calling for you
Just another day, an empire has fallen from viewYou sleep, you sleep, you sleep
You sleep, you sleep, you sleep
Follow me
You sleep, you sleep, you sleep
You cannot follow me
