

Total Serendipity

Mates of State

Stuck in line, I let it be
I see the beauty and the subtleties
The man he turns to me, a passing grin
No I belong to him in my imagination She almost didn't give you the message
Where we would be if she never gave you the message? I told a friend I liked her book
'Cause I understand opinion's worth
It's like a boy who hear he's awfully smart
He has a plant that grows tall because he talks to it She almost didn't give you the message
Where we would be if she never you the message? You're a pot of gold
And you're sitting in the rainbow's edge
There's a marigold
Growing in between your toes You're a pot of gold
Sitting in the rainbow's edge
There's a marigold
Growing in between your I ran straight home direct from class
Won't let this time come to pass
Put some records on, ones you know
I grabbed the phone, in the background screw your courage She almost didn't give you the message
Where we would be if she never you the message? Walking in the springtime air
Pushing through the door and up the stairs
Baby pointed out there was a light
On a white telephone, you're chattering tonight She almost didn't give you the message
Where we would be if she never you the message? You're a pot of gold
Sitting in the rainbow's edge
There's a marigold
Growing in between your toes You're a pot of gold
Sitting in the rainbow's edge
There's a marigold
Growing in between your I would have waited for you
I would have called you again
I would have waited for you
I would have called you again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>