I'm Not Your Slave

Glenn Hughes

Why have you been so complicated
You took a hold on me
I've never been so aggravated
Won't you listen carefully?You paint a tragedy, confess yourself to me
And I will take it to my grave
Your last mistake you see
You're damned and now I'm free
Because I'm not your slaveWhy do you push me into the shadows?
Why do you bear no shame?
How can you tell me that nothin' else matters
When you don't even know my name?You paint a tragedy, confess yourself to me
And I will take it to my grave
Your last mistake you see
You're damned and now I'm free
Because I'm not your slaveI'm not your slave
I'm not your slaveYeah, yeah, yeah, yeah
Not your slaveOh, you paint a tragedy, confess yourself to me
And I will take it to my grave
Your last mistake you see
You're damned and now I'm free
Because I'm not your slaveYou paint a tragedy, confess yourself to me
And I will take it to my grave
Your last mistake you see
You're damned and now I'm free
Because I'm not your slaveI'm not your, I'm not your slave
I'm not, I'm not your slave, oh, slave
