So I Wait

Sarina Paris

Contemplating everyday
Wondering if I'm wasting all of my time
You know I'm dedicating
Every thought on only you
My mommy used to taught me that
Patience is a virtue
And so I wait through the night 'cause tomorrow you may find
That you will need me again for some times I love and care
And so I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you
And so I'll wait all my life, hoping one day you will see that Love's a lock you're the key, you will come and rescue me
And so I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you
It gets frustrating time and again
But I am not complaining 'cause in the end
If I just keep believing
No matter what I'll be with you
My mommy used to taught me that
Patience is a virtue
And so I wait through the night 'cause tomorrow you may find
That you will need me again for some times I love and care
And so I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you
And so I wait through the night 'cause tomorrow you may find
That you will need me again for some times I love and care
And so I wait hoping you will discover you're in love
That you need me as much as I need you

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/