The Call

Squeeze

It felt so bad that I'm in pain
Then why don't I say, no, not again?
Your love has failed and all's gone sour
You have to see her every hourWhen you can't sleep, your mind is blank
But you don't love, no longer thinks
You lose the grip you thought you had
She smiles at you but you are sadSo if then Heaven sees in you
Then suddenly it's over through
You take your life into your hands
Forgetting all your other plansAnd you're so sad you cut your wrists
And they can show you what they missed
You labor now a point in pain
But will your worst day ever end?When you lose or when you've gained
Don't give up, don't start again
Your feelings burned like forest wood
You take your life, you're gone for goodYou'll miss her bed but not her brains
There is no need to mention names
My reasons strong, that all has failed
Your face is blue, you're looking paleLove can kill you, suck you down
Suicidal up, side down
Love's a mystery to us all
So don't be mis said, what a callRemember when we used to fight
And fists would fly throughout the night
Your face is filled with cherry blood
And so I feel my time has comeYou tore me from the world I knew
And suddenly it's finished through
Your feelings burned like forest wood
You take your life, you're gone for goodYou'll miss her bed but not her brains
There is no need to mention names
My reasons strong, that all has failed
Your face is blue, you're looking pale
