

Ladies' Nite In Buffalo?

David Lee Roth

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

Talk about the high cost of lovin'
I think I hear freedom drummin' it seems
Give me your heart and I'll give you the stars
"Yeah right", she says, "Maybe in your dreams"
Heat wave blast, kids are screamin'
Pavement's hot sidewalk's steamin'
Only me, happens every time
Thinkin' 'bout you and me hello, goodbye
You can jazz it up or play it slow
It's still the only song I know
It's 2 a.m. and traffic's slow
Another ladies' nite in Buffalo
I was listenin' to the DJ sayin'
"Put the stone behind", he said
Then the words can blow better, better
I don't mind some stormy wheather
Tonight, no I can feel it, the
Heat wave blast, kids are screamin'
Pavement's hot sidewalk's steamin'
Only me, happens every time
Thinkin' 'bout you and me hello, goodbye
Put the top down, hit the road
I sing the only song we know
It's 2 a.m. the traffic's slow
It looks like ladies' nite in Buffalo
oh, baby I got kinda sense of deja vu
I could swear I've seen you somewhere before
You don't think you've ever
Seen me somewhere before, do you?
So it must have been two other people
I know, baby, I say, I didn't wanna half drag you
It's too far to drive back, baby
I don't wanna drive alone tonight
You can jazz it up or play it slow
It's still the only song I know
It's 2 a.m. and traffic's slow
Another ladies' nite in Buffalo
Well it ain't much all right I know
Oh it's the only song I know
2 a.m. and the traffic's slow
Another ladies' nite in Buffalo
