The Lonely Monarch

Evergrey

I dwell in you shadow
I dare not wake what's asleep
I grew in your shadow
I never defied the resting beast
But when you dress in your black wings again
When you tunr your back on me again
Still not denying you, still not denying youI've tried a thousand times
And bowed a thousand more
And I fought through eternal nights
To keep us from falling
It's written across the sky
It offers clarity
It is not you, it's only me
Who keeps us from falling down
I always felt a burden, it was always hard
Always felt uncertain, you never meant no harm
Raise that head again, wake that will again
Solution could be tranquil and absolution so close Don't fear to turn inside, leave that path behind
Cross the inner lines, change your ways to end
Where are your reasons to extend...
...the lonely monarch's war again?
I've tried a thousand times
And bowed a thousand more
I fought through eternal nights
To keep us from falling
It's written across the sky
It offers clarity
It is not you, it's only me
Who keeps us from fallingI've tried a thousand times
And bowed a thousand more
I fought through eternal nights

To keep us from falling
It's written across the sky
It's clear for all to see
That it's not you, it's only me
Who keeps us from falling down
Who keeps us from falling
