Open Your Eyes

Ivan

Tears have fallen, years gone by,
and I am left to wonder why.
Had I but acted differently,
you'd still be here, beside me.
If I could have but one regret,
It would be you, not Juliet,
Hoping to find you.

Tears have fallen on the ground.
The years have turned themselves around.
This solemn pact that we endure,
will bear it's fruit; Of this I'm sure.
If I could make, but one mistake,
it would be you, my soul to take.
I'm still hoping to find you.

Open your eyes.
See things you've never seen.
Where is the world we have been looking for?
Just open your eyes, forever and ever.

Years have fallen, tears gone by.
and still I'm left to wonder why.
Have I been acting out of grace,
or pain about the years erased?
If I could make but one request,
it would be you, and all the rest.
And I'm still hoping to find you.

Open your eyes.
See things you've never seen.
Where is the world we have been looking for?
Just open your eyes, forever and ever.

Just, open your eyes.
See things you've never seen.
Where is the world we have been looking for?
Just open your eyes, forever and ever.

Open your eyes, forever and ever.

Open your eyes, forever and ever.

Lyrics submitted by Derek.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/