

Girl Next Door

Black 47

THE GIRL NEXT DOOR

Your bedroom blackmail has worked real good
Youâ€™ve gone and left home like you said you would
The note you scribbled on the kitchen wall
Said, â€œso long, stupid!â€• and that was all
I suppose that I should be relieved
Even act just a little pleased
But since you gone life has been such a bore
Why did you leave me for the girl next door?

My barroom buddies think itâ€™s rather strange
They laugh at me and call you funny names
My mother said she knew all along
Always said that you would do me wrong
Still I wish you would consider, dear,
Leaving her and returning here
â€™Cause since you gone life has been such a bore
Why did you leave me for the girl next door?

Wish that I could be like Bogie
Hey, Iâ€™d sweep you off your feet
But now you tell me that she can give you
Everything you need

Youâ€™ve wrecked my head I really must confess
Youâ€™ve left me in the most dreadful mess
I always thought you were so super straight
But I found out about you too late
I suppose that I should be relieved
Even act just a little pleased
But since you gone, life has been such a bore
Why did you leave me for the girl next door?

Â© Starry Plough Music (BMI)

Lyrics submitted by Larry.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>