Building as Foreign

Admiral Fallow

How we had ended up here with start we had amazes me From humble backyard brawl and smiles to zero on the gages those tea leaves, a paper straw, a nylon fumble, a shaky jaw Coz we wore boots and football strips Some strange clothes for a first kiss and I'll point out of sight The ones that people that don't know don't care a jot for Double hedges, a single shop, that square of glass that we wrestled onI love to come back; it's making me tall but when I get there there's nothing at all Owned the foundations and brick by brick you built a home for a familyAll those coats on the stand, like a cluster people hand in hand, hang at odds with the sods who inhabit them We marked our heights by the door and sat the read-through that September storm Saddar still to return each winter hoping to find Something more than a building full of strangers The living room soaked up more tears than it's had conversationsI love to come back it's making me tall
but when I get there there's nothing at all Owned the foundations and brick by brick you built a home for a family, oh!I love to come back it's making me tall
But when I get there there's nothing at all Fly past the red bricks in double time [Album Version:] to find a the Secret of NIMH as if it never seen that one [Extended Mix:] to find a the Secret of NIMH as if it I'm not seen that oneHeartbeat rises as I go down Down to that beacon in a open ground a hurricane Heartbeat rises and no surprize
That we're got hunger in open eyes You'll be glad that you came.
(x2)Heartbeat rises as I go down
Down to that beacon in a open ground
a wreckage.
Heartbeat rises!
