

Guardians of Fate

Ensiferum

Race with the wind, the night is ending
They will win, when the sun is rising
Stories have been told for years about the rebel man
Riding in the lands of unknown
No one has ever seen their furious beings
And their secret remains untold
Their deeds shall be heard
Their legend will live forever
They are the guardians of fate
As they shouted their last battle cries
Their destiny was to be dead
Their future was in no one's hands
Like the prophet of the moon had said
Race with the wind, the night is ending
They will win, when the sun is rising
Their deeds shall be heard
Their legend will live forever
As they shouted their last battle cries
Their destiny was to be dead
Their future was in no one's hands
Like the prophet of the moon had said
Those who traveled far away from home
They'll never return
And those who crossed the seas of hope
They all will burn
They are the guardians of fate
They're riding in the lands of unknown
They're riding in the lands of unknown
They're riding in the lands of unknown
Those who traveled far away from home
They'll never return
And those who crossed the seas of hope
They all will burn
Those who traveled far away from home
They'll never return
And those who crossed the seas of hope
They all will burn

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>