Lay Your Burden Down

Jon Allen

Thereâ€™s a new moon on the rise
And itâ€™s trying to catch your eye
Just a whisper in the dark of whatâ€™s to come
This old world is spinning fast
Like a train thatâ€™s flying past and it seems not even hope is holding on

Now the night feels like forever
but soon the sun will come around
Make your heart a little lighter
Darling, lay your burden down

Troubles slipped into your stride
Shook you, mixed you up inside
Stole the light that let you see that you were strong

You donâ€™t think youâ€™ll make it through
But if you let me carry you
Iâ€™ll take you far enough to see that you were loved

Now the night feels like forever
But soon the sun will come around
Make your heart a little lighter
Darling, lay your burden down

Though itâ€™s dark
And I donâ€™t know where weâ€™re going to Time can be cruel if youâ€™re standing still

Now the night feels like forever
But soon the sun will come around
Make your heart a little lighter
Darling, lay your burden down

Lyrics submitted by anita.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/