Soulfly

My pain is as deep as my roots
The yearning, the hurting, what am I to do?
Indeed I plant seeds for the path I wald
And my voice helps them grow like water
When I talk but I'm hurting y'all
You didn't die in vain, your thought
With me remains and your soul gives me
Strength to face another day without you
In this tree of pain
In this tree of pain
In this tree of pain
Till the day I see you again
Again
Under this tree of pain
Where we carved our names
Forever to remain
This pain
No one can understand
You know we can't pretend
That every thing's okay
Bleeding, screaming
I touch your grave, I kiss your face
This pain is more than I can take
I punch your grave, I call your name
This pain is more than I can take
Again
I find myself again
Under the tree of pain
Where we carved our names
Why then
Leace without goodbye
Just tears in my eyes
And the love you left inside
Bleeding, screaming
I touch your grave, I kiss your face
This pain is more than I can take
I punch your grave, I call you name
This pain is more than I can take
For D-Low

Everyday that I pray
Why'd they take his life away?
This pain, it hurts me so bad
All the days that I never had
All I have, my god is this tree of pain
All I have, my god is this tree of pain
Carved my name, my God in this tree of pain
Carved my name, my God in this tree of pain
Dana, one minute's all I need
Dana, to heal the things that bleed
Dana, why God why?
