The Love You Lose

Slowtide

Are you in a hurry? headed for somewhere else? trying to get rid of your past so quickly, but only if it sells it draws you into the distance, draws you away from me anywhere's better than here' you say but I know that this can't be when you speak I see bubbles pop up and read between the lines no matter how hard you try to hide them, yeah, I can see the signs

You're a pretty liar, honey, yeah you can bend the truth so I'd rather let you leave me now than sit here with the blues and I might try to change your mind but what would be the use cause someday you'll be looking back regret the love you lose there's no thought to be wasted, and no word to speak here's the final farewell and the kisses on the cheek so you got what you wanted, as cold as it may sound you were looking for cheap entertainment and that's what you have found when you loved you had no intentions, only flesh and skin satisfied with low expectations and nothing left to win Lyrics submitted by Kevin.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/