

That's How It Goes

Rusty Clanton

This is how it starts, with smart aleck remarks
You got me showin teeth, grinnin back at me
It's something in your walk
I know it ain't your fault
When you took my breath away
The more I've got to say
The less I wanna talk
You listen to my songs and tell it like it comes
You make me wanna write so how could it be wrong?
You shake my heart right up so
How am I expected to stay away when I belong next to you
In highs and lowest lows, it's you and me. That's how it goes Yeah this is how it goes. I love you head to toes
It hasn't been a year. Always want you here
We got one for the books. I don't care how it looks
When you tell me I'm a catch, keep me comin back
Sinkin, line, and I'm never feelin stuck or watchin where I step
Is this what they call love? I think I'll call it love
I'm back to where I started How am I expected to stay away when I belong next to you
In highs and lowest lows, it's you and me that's how it goes
I don't want to cause a scene
I just want you to know exactly what I mean
When I say that I love you 'cause "I love you" won't mean what it's supposed to mean unless I got you close to me so How am I expected to stay away when I belong next to you
In highs and lowest lows, it's you and me that's how it goes
