

End of the World

Matt Alber

I don't wanna ride this rollercoaster think I wanna get off but they've buckled me down like it's the end of the world if you don't wanna have this conversation then you'd better get out cause we're climbing to our death at least that's what they want you to think just in case we jump the track I have a confession to make but it's something like a corkscrew

I don't wanna fall, I don't wanna fly I don't wanna be dangled over the edge of a dying romance but I don't wanna stop. I wanna lie I don't wanna believe it's over I just wanna stay with you tonight

I didn't mean to scream out quite so loudly when we screeched to a halt, I'm just never prepared for the end of the ride maybe we should get on something simpler like a giant balloon?
I've got two tickets left, and so do you instead of giving them away to some stranger, let's get back in line again and ride the big one don't you wanna fall?

don't you wanna fly?
don't you wanna be dangled over the edge of this aching romance? and it it's gonna end then I wanna know that we squeezed out every moment but if there is nothing left can you tell me why that it is you're holding onto me like it's the end of the world?
