The Ending

Go Radio

Do you ever feel That you can't wake up That today's a dream And you've just been stuck That nothing in this house breathes the same If everybody in the room maybe stepped out You'd never have to see the past where you hit the ground And you never have to miss the walls of the old house So if you find that you're stuck in the moment Just let your eyes cut away from the broken And try to sleep like the broken's forgotten If the path I take is the right one Then what's to do with all that's left 'Cause my pride it's built like a champion But my heart it's filled with regret How can i deal with moving over when all i feel is so offset 'Cause my mind is torn like the pages Of a story yet unsaid This can't be he ending Did you ever dream You were something great That you changed a life Weren't so afraid That none of the colors we know fade You can find a spark In your yesterday Be your something more Be your saving grace Be the change that you need for the years you will face 'Cause when you tell every soul that you meet you Have a hope that you have to hold on to You show the world that you're enough That we are who we are but we're still scared because If the path I take is the right one Then what's to do with all that's left 'Cause my pride is built like a champion But my heart's filled with regret How can i deal with moving over when all i feel is so offset 'Cause my mind is torn like the pages

Of a story yet unsaid This cant be the ending

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/