

Thank You

Gotthard

How many times a day can I let it get away?
And miss the chance to tell you all the things I need to say
How long's it gotta take? Is the sleeper gonna wake?
Now it's time to let you know and I hope it ain't too late
Thank you, to you I owe more than I can say
Two words and yet I know they're not enough
Thank you, to you I owe more and more each day
Never be enough to say, never find the words to show you
But I'm on my way
How many days have gone? Yet they never seem to drag on
And the sun you keep it shining, always you I'm counting on How long I can't recall, forever seems to me to be small
You've always been the silver lining, yeah you never let me fall
Thank you, to you I owe more than I can say
Two words and yet I know they're not enough
Thank you, to you I owe more and more each day
Never find the words to say, never find the words to show you
But I'm on my way, yeah I'll find a way
More than the world, more than the light
More than the moon, more than just love, more than a try
You gave me everything and now I call it my life
Mother of mine, mother of mine, mother of mine
How many times a day can I let it get away?
And miss the chance to tell you all the things I need to say
How long's it gotta take? Is the sleeper gonna wake?
Now it's time to let you know and I just hope it ain't too late
Thank you, to you I owe more than I can say
Two words and yet I know they're not enough
Thank you, to you I owe more and more each day
Never be enough to say, I'll never find the words to show you
But I'm on my way
Never be enough to say, I'll never find the words to show you
But I'm on my way
I'm gonna find, I'll find my way, I'm gonna find my way
More than the world, More than the light
More than just love, more than a try Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>