

If a Broken Heart Could Kill

Montgomery Gentry

I've never had a broken bone
I hardly ever get a cold
I keep myself in pretty good shape
But I know I wouldn't be here today
If a broken heart could kill, I'd be long gone
Ashes to ashes, dust to dust by now
Six feet under, a tombstone on the hill
Lying there alone, in my new wooden home
If a broken heart could kill
I've run the rapids, jump from a plane
Been through earthquakes and hurricanes
I've climbed mountains, been a rodeo clown
But after you I'm lucky I'm still around
If a broken heart could kill, I'd be long gone
Ashes to ashes, dust to dust by now
Six feet under, a tombstone on the hill
Lying there alone, in my new wooden home
If a broken heart could kill
Yeah, I'd be heaven ground on my way down
If a broken heart could kill
