

What It Means To You

Andrew Combs

It was good the first time
But all good things must end
Sweet while it lasted
So why go and try it again
You keep on reaching
For one more roll of the dice
I've made my mistakes
But I won't make them twice
There's no sense in crying
There's no need to blame
When all that you're wanting
Is just more of the same
You can keep all the memories
That you're holding on to
I've already let go
Of what it means to you
Your looks may linger
If I catch your eye
There's no use in wondering
If I'm waving hello or goodbye
But there's one thing for certain
Something you should understand
Sometimes love just slips through your hands
There's no sense in crying
There's no need to blame
When all that you're wanting
Is just more of the same
You can keep all the memories
That you're holding on to
I've already let go
Of what it means to you
