

Lonely Is A Lifetime

The Wild Feathers

No one really knows her first name, but they all hold her hand And everyone leans on her windowpane but no one looks in She's so far from home
But only the starlight can turn this town cold
And lonely is a lifetime
of getting used to being alone
So where do you go?
The street lights come with a cool breeze and she waits all night And just before the morning sunlight, she breaks down and cries She's trying to make it right
But only the starlight
can turn this town cold
And lonely is a lifetime
of getting used to being alone
So where do you go?
And only the starlight
can turn this town cold
And lonely is a lifetime
of getting used to being alone
So where do you go?
