

The Feel Again (stay)

Blue October

I see the sun go down on the river
I feel the wind blow, I would've stayed to gray
I feel the air around you, it's kinda closing in
Do you feel it fall or do you feel it at all? I can.

I see the world keep moving as I stumble
They seem to move much faster than me
And while I sit in my four cornered room, dividing hearts for our little girl
While I can't be anything but who I am

And I wish you'd stay
Well that was the beginning of the two of us, the start of our show
Stay stay stay
No I would never have let go

And I see the sun go up as your image
And I feel the weight of your eyes as you stare
I feel it all when you, when you first, when you kissed my lips
You used to make me feel at home, you made me feel at home, you made me feel again

Oh that's when you used to say will you stay and not let go
That was just the two of us to think about, the stars of our show
And you would say I wish you'd stay and I'd never go
Oh I would never have let go!

So take this heart of mine
You've taken it a hundred thousand times
But this time, this time I'm gonna take it with me

I see the door close down behind you
I watch your face turn from glow to straight gray
I see the moon go up and it shines this glory on my face
Who will know? Who will know? Who will know!
How we would stay and we should stay and never go
There's just three of us to think about now in our show, our show, our show
And I think we'd stay, we'd just stay, and then we'd know
That we should never let go oh oh
Something to think about oh... in our heart of hearts
Just look into those big brown eyes and you'd just fall apart
Maybe we should stay, we should stay, at least she'd know

That we should never have let go
No, no, let go, go... oh

I wish you'd have stayed
I wish you'd have stayed...
