Sugar Free

Terence Trent D'Arby

Tight rope walking ain't that hard
After slamming back a few
You're laughing now but it ain't that funny
When we get through with you
Tell me, we're all about failing and being wrong
Tell me, you'll never let go of you
I will never get why they take you for a ride
And I can't hear myself scream
If I never loved you, I wouldn't cry
And I can't hear myself dream
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
And I can't let myself go
Waiting for you, waiting for you
And I can't feel myself crying
Standing closer ain't that bad
With your hands upon your face
You look too far, I looked much harder
And they lost all sense of
Trace me and draw up, color me lost and found
Tear me down, lift me up
You make me feel so god damn colder than your bleeding eyes
And I can't hear myself scream
If I never loved you, I wouldn't cry
And I can't hear myself dream
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
And I can't let myself go
Waiting for you, waiting for you
And I can't feel myself crying
If I never knew you, I'd never love you
If I never loved you then I wouldn't cry
If I never hold you then I'll never know you
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
And I can't hear myself scream
If I never loved you, I wouldn't cry
And I can't hear myself dream
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
And I can't let myself go
Waiting for you, waiting for you
And I can't feel myself crying

And I can't hear myself scream
If I never loved you, I wouldn't cry
And I can't hear myself dream
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
And I can't hear myself scream
If I never loved you, I wouldn't cry
And I can't hear myself dream
If loving meant living then I wouldn't die
