

Reflections (Happa Remix)

Django Django

Stare into a gleaming stone
Trying to seek new light
It glistened once, now its unrefined
And cold
Try to live a perfect life
Paint our world in gold
Before we realized we were owned and sold
Reflections hurt my eyes
Rays cut me to size
Glimmer in the Sun
The brilliance comes undone
We worked these mines for far too long
Set our lives in stone
The tracks that lead us down are overgrown
Climb out to a past we'd lost
Now the future's old
The embers burned too bright for us to hold
Reflections hurt my eyes
Rays cut me to size
Glimmer in the Sun
The brilliance comes undone

Songwriters

VINCENT NEFF, THOMAS GRACE, DAVID MACLEAN, JAMES DIXON Published by

Lyrics © SONGS OF SMP Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>