

Dashboard

Modest Mouse

Well, it would've been, could've been worse than you would ever know
Oh, the dashboard melted, but we still have the radio
Oh, it should've been, could've been worse than you would ever know

Well, you told me about nowhere

Well, it sounds like someplace I'd like to go
Oh, it could've been, should've been worse than you would ever know

Well, the windshield was broken but I love the fresh air you know

(The dashboard melted but we still have the radio)
Well, it would've been, could've been worse than you would ever know, oh

(The dashboard melted but we still have the radio)

Oh, we talked about nothing which was more than I wanted you to know

Now here we go
Oh, it would've been, could've been worse than it had even gone

Well, the car was on blocks, but I was already where I want

(It was impossible, we ran it good, we ran it good)
Why should we ever even ever really even get to know?
(It was impossible, we ran it good, we ran it good)

Oh, if the world don't like us it'll shake us just like we were a cold

Now here we go
Well we scheme and we scheme but we always blow it

We've yet to crash, but we still might as well enjoy it

Standing at a light switch to each east and west horizon

Every dawn when you're surprising, and the evening was consoling

Saying, "See it wasn't quite as bad as"
Well, it would've been, could've been worse than you would ever know
I was patiently erasing and recording the wrong episodes

After you had proved my point wrong

It wasn't like I'd let it go, oh oh oh, oh oh oh

I just wanted to catch the last laugh of this show
Yeah, it would've been, could've been worse than you would ever know

Oh, the dashboard melted, but we still have the radio

(The dashboard melted, but we ran it good, we ran it good)
Hard-wired to conceive, so much we'd have to stow it
Even needs have needs, tiny giants made of tinier giants

Don't wear eyelids so I don't miss the last laugh of this show

(The dashboard melted but we still have the radio)
Well, we could've been, should've been worse than you would ever know

(The dashboard melted but we still have the radio)

Well, you told me about nowhere

Well, it sounds like someplace I'd like to go

Now here we go
Well we schemed and we scheme but we always blow it

We've yet to crash, but we still might as well enjoy it

Standing at a light switch to each east and west horizon

Every dawn when you're surprising, and the evening was consoling

Saying, "See it wasn't quite as bad as" Oh, it would've been, could've been worse than you would ever know

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>