Five Star Day

Aqueduct

I don't believe in astrology but you can read me my horoscope I like to hear your voice it doesn't mean that much to me you see, surely you have to know how much you mean to me fearing my destiny it seems I've shipwrecked myself before I ever left to sea hoping you'll rescue me from my fill in the blank philosophy whatever they may be used to be magical until she ran away and took with her my five star dayI've been walking with a swag in my step have a feeling that I just can't forget feel like maybe I should pack up and go the only question now is where I don't know fell in love with the institution lost respect for the whole industry they will always leave you down on your knees only place I know that I never want to beUsed to be magical until she ran away and took with her my five star day played like a sad guitar's refrain beautiful melodies are orchestrated by my pain
she ran away and took with her my five star dayI've been walking with a swag in my step have a feeling that I just can't forget
feel like maybe I should pack up and go
they will always leave you down on your knees only place I know that I never want to be
