

The Highwayman

Stevie Nicks

Alas he was the highwayman
The one that comes and goes
And only the highway-woman
Keeps up with the likes of thoseAnd she in all her magic
With hands as quick as light
Took him to be a challenge
And went into the nightAnd he in all his glory
Was far ahead of her
But she was never sorry
For wishes that would burnEnter competition
She chases beneath the moon
Her horse is like a dragonfly
She is just a foolAnd she wonders is this real
Or does she just want to be queen
And he fights the way he feels
Is this the end of the dream?And then he sees her coming
Heartbeats on the wind
Considers slowing down
But then, he could never winAnd she out in the distance
Sees him against the sky
A pale and violent rider
A dream begun in wineAnd she wonders is this real
Or does she just want to be queen
And he fights the way he feels
Is this the end of the dream?A dream as the thunder wakes her
And her highwayman disappears
Or a life already lived before
In eyes welled with tearsToday and still today they ride
Will they ever win?
He the glory, she the love
Still they try again
He the glory, she the love
Still they try again
He the glory, she the love
And still they try again
