Marslander

Siddharta

every morning there's a crow telling me the way to go different place I'm meant to be out in space infinity circling around the sun on the planet yet to findref. but there's a name down in everything I now where to hide again nobody wants to show and in a million years I couldn't let you free but today I have to find another waydifferent eyes I need to see my entire history need no air need no control from above or down below and considering my aim I'm the one you shouldn't blame
