

Disappear

Hoobastank

There's a pain that sleeps inside, it sleeps with just one eye
And awakens the moment that you're near
Though I try not to look away, the pain it still remains
Only leaving when you're next to me Do you know that every time you're near Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay So I stand and look around, distracted by the sounds
Of everyone and everything I see
And I search through every face without a single trace
Of the person, the person that I need Do you know that every time you're near
Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay Can you make them disappear?
Make them disappear There's a pain that sleeps inside, sleeps with just one eye
And awakens the moment that you're near
And I search through every face without a single trace
Of the person, the person that I need Do you know that every time you're near
Everybody else seems far away?
So can you come and make them disappear?
Make them disappear and we can stay
