

Another Brick Falls

Debbie Gibson

Day after day I try to earn my pay
Go a little further but the odds are never in my favor
(Oh, another)

I tell myself this can't go on very much longer
But when I put the last brick in the wall
Another brick falls

I try to run, t try to hide
A thorn gets stuck right in my side
I tell myself it's all a game
But the truth remains
(Another)

I pick it up, I plow ahead
I think of all I've done and said
But, it's never quite enough
Life will always be a little tough
I run my race, keep up
(Oh)

Pretty well, at a steady pace but
There are days I fall behind the pack
(Oh, another)

It all seems simple till it gets so hard to handle
From the sky from nothing at all
Another brick falls
I try to run, t try to hide
A thorn gets stuck right in my side
I tell myself it's all a game
But the truth remains

(Another)
I pick it up, I plow ahead
I think of all I've done and said
But, it's never quite enough
Life will always be a little tough
Obstacles are a loss of concentration
A thought that is in total isolation
Hang on, you're headed for a ride
Don't stray from the path that leads you
Instincts will never deceive you when life really kicks
Learn to catch those falling bricks

I try to run, t try to hide
A thorn gets stuck right in my side
I tell myself it's all a game
I try to run, t try to hide
A thorn gets stuck right in my side
I tell myself it's all a game
But the truth remains
(Another)
I pick it up, I plow ahead
I think of all I've done and said
But, it's never quite enough
Life will always be a little tough

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnllyrics.com/>