

Not Waiting for Tomorrow

Julia Price

Its three AM, Im eating grilled cheese
Sitting on the floor with a map in front of me
I take my pen and draw a smile

On all the places that I would like to seeCause lately, been wanting to get back on the road
Because when I sit still for too long I start to feel alone

Well maybe I need to find a new state line
To point me to a place I can call homeCHORUS

What you see is only what you look for, Ive been walking around so blind just
Acting like Im gunna live forever, watching all of my chances die, well
Im not waiting for tomorrow to let it slip away

Im not waiting for tomorrow its got to be todayIve dated rich and Ive dated poor, slept at the Ritz and on the floor

Well if Im wiser than before I havent learned how yet
I need to make a new mistake

Because lately Ive been faking itAnd maybe you think Im a fool because I go
When everybody else we know is settling in
But Im not sticking around because Ill drown
Ive got to go and teach myself to swimCHORUS

What you see is only what you look for, Ive been walking around so blind just
Acting like Im gunna live forever, watching all of my chances die well
Im not waiting for tomorrow to let it slip away

Im not waiting for tomorrow its got to be todayI packed my jeans into a suitcase
I need to breathe in the sweet Southern air
And no I dont know where Im driving to
But I dont careCHORUS

What you see is only what you look for, Ive been walking around so blind just
Acting like Im gunna live forever, watching all of my chances die well
Im not waiting for tomorrow to let it slip away

Im not waiting for tomorrow its got to be todayIm not waiting for tomorrow
Im not waiting for tomorrow
Im not waiting for tomorrow
Im not waiting for tomorrow
