

One Jungle

The Fixx

The sailor walks across the ocean
Unsafe on waves of glass
Any time dark skies could open
He could perish at the mast His stomach turns, the potion burns
He's lifting every stone Money comes, and money goes
Man must always have a home
Money comes, and money goes
Man could never be alone Hunter in his leafy temple
Monkeys sing the lions ride
Jungle tempting with example
His gun always by his side Potion burns, his stomach turns
He's lifting every stone Money comes, and money goes
Man must always have a home
Money comes, and money goes
Man could never be alone Astronaut on a traveled plan
Searching for his other man
The plastic pawn is in his hand
And in the other, a looking glass His stomach turns, the potion burns
He's lifting every stone Money comes, and money goes
Man must always have a home
Money comes, and money goes
Man could never be alone Money comes, money goes
