Can I Live?

Normal Like You

sometimes you don't know where you are until you're there and it's too late it's too late to find a better way the time's escape so let's not liethe stars are brighter on the other side tonight the clock has died surely this could not be overthe truth gets old the walls so hard again these days as if they knew everything it's not the caseyou know the feeling when you're burning
'cause you're trying to win you're hoping for something more when you look down you'll find there's just no way to turnso let's get down 'cause it's time we learned how to fly there's no pretending happy endings when we're trapped inside our livessometimes you don't know where you are until you're there and it's too late
it's too late to find the better way a better way to liveso in the end we'll look back on distance times when we began to understand that life is only what we make of it you've got to try and then maybe you'll see why we try so hard to diemaybe you'll see why why we try so hard to diesometimes you don't know where you are until you're there and it's too late
a better to live, to bring too deep
