

Letter to Judas

Vegan Reich

For those within our ranks, the ones who knew yet turned away, betraying truth for fantasy and the easy life that brings... You can hide from reality and pretend that life's but a game but while you're looking elsewhere it will hit you like a train. That world of make believe you've built inside your mind will fall to pieces and you'll feel the pain, of those you left in chains, the ones you could have saved, had you not forsaken the righteous life, condemning militancy. Accepting brutality the status quo's maintained, you're guilty... Guilty! Apostasy there's not greater crime you're first on JAH list this is your judgment day. Your sentence worse than death you'll be longing for the grave as your world becomes darkness and this life, your purgatory.
