She

Tait

She's sits in the corner thinking about all the things she has done.She says she's the only one to blame the candle next to her seems brighter than the light in her heartNo one understands her painThey just don't get herShe's caught up in the story she's only 17
there's no one to protect her she's just like you and me
I don't think it's fair
Can no one see what is going onshe tries to hide the scars she's taking pills to make it go awayshe cries herself to sleep at night When people point at her and treat her like she doesn't belong she just closes her eyesThey don't quite get herShe's caught up in the story
she's only 17
there's no one to protect her
I don't think it's fair
what is going onShe's dying inside no one to run to looking for love there's no one aroundEverything else feels like a daily dream I can not believe someone to find thislove that's all she needsYou couldn't understand even if you tried you won't believe what its like to feel this wayA thousand voices trying make you feel like everything is your faultIt just won't go awayThey don't, I get hurtShe's caught up in the story
she's only 17

I don't think it's fair
what is going on X2what is going on... with her
