A Thousand Words

Styrofoam

We stumble in a tangled web
Decaying friendships almost dead
And hide behind a mask of lies
We twist and turn and we avoid
All hope of salvage now devoid
I see the truth inside your eyes
So take all this noise to your brain
And send it back again
I'll bare the cost, shed my skin
Call you up and then
I'll say the words out loud
You can resurrect a thousand words
To deceive me more and more
A thousand words will give the reason
Why I don't need you anymore
Time manipulates your heart
Preconceptions torn apart
Begin to doubt my state of mind
But I won't go down on what I said
I won't retract convictions read
I may perplex but I'm not blind
So take all this noise to your brain

Send it back again
I'll bear the cost, shed my skin
Call you up and then
I'll say the words out aloud
You can resurrect a thousand words
To deceive me more and more
A thousand words will give the reason
Why I don't need you anymore
I'll say the words out loud
I'll say a thousand words or more
Manipulation fabrication
Conversation annihilation
I'll say a thousand words or more
Damnation frustration elevation procreation
I'll say a thousand words our more
You can resurrect a thousand words

To deceive me more and more
A thousand words will give the reason
Why I don't need you anymore
You can resurrect a thousand words
To deceive me more and more
A thousand words will give the reason
Why I don't need you anymore

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/