Jack Ingram

Like the fish in the lake and that cane pole you make
And the feeling when one's on the line
Like the smile of a friend glad to see you again
That erases the passing of time Like the eagle that flies, the sun in the sky
Or the grace God has given to me It's free things I wouldn't trade for anything Like the night we were standing with your hand in my hand
Just staring up at the stars
Dancing to something but it wasn't nothing
But the beating of two lucky hearts The sound of a train, hard pouring rain
And the words that you whispered to me Oh free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything Free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything to me Like that penny on the ground or the fortune I found
When you wrapped your arms around me Free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything
Free things I wouldn't trade for anything, they're everything
Free things I wouldn't trade for anything are everything to me
