Perfect Place

Jack Bruce & Robin Trower

Take away the blindfold
Hold your head up high
There's more to life than you have seen
Detach what troubles you
And just break clean
How you became fixed
On things that do you harm
That's something to discern for yourself
But don't shift the blame onto somebody else
The moon you've been shooting for
Leaves so many broken and bent
Shattered minds that were hoping for
A perfect place to rest
Look away from the drop
And you can halt the slide
Don't even think about the past
Or you're gonna burn out way too fast
