

Blackbird

Alter Bridge

The willow, it weeps today
A breeze from the distance
Is calling your name
Unfurl your black wings and wait Across the horizons
Coming to sweep you away
It's coming to sweep you away Let the wind carry you home
Blackbird, fly away
May you never be broken again The fragile cannot endure
The wrecked and the jaded
A place so impure The static of this cruel world
Cause some birds to fly
Long before they've seen their day
Long before they've seen their day Let the wind carry you home
Blackbird, fly away
May you never be broken again Beyond the suffering you've known
I hope you find your way
May you never be broken again Ascending you find your resistance
You know that you've made such a difference
In all you leave behind
You'll live to the end The cycle of suffering goes on
But the memories of you stay strong
Some day I too will fly
And find you again Let the wind carry you home
Blackbird, fly away
May you never be broken again Beyond the suffering you've known
I hope you find your way
May you never be broken again
May you never be broken again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>