

The River

Sentenced

Yet another morning that feels like this Yet another life's bitter kiss It has been like this for I don't know how long
I only know that at some point it all went wrong I don't remember much from last night but still far more than I would like to I'm floating downstream that damned river again What can I do now except continue and open a bottle once more What can I do now except see this through and float with the stream, off the shore
- see where the river will take me When I needed you, you weren't there now I need booze like I need the air that I breathe With each drink I'm drifting further away from your world the further off I get the harder it will be to return It has been like this for I don't know how long
I only know that at some point
it all went wrong Floating downstream that damned river again
The river that's distilled from premium grain What can I do now except continue
and open a bottle once more
What can I do now except see this through
and float with the stream, off the shore
- see where the river will take me
- see where the river will take me
