

The River

Sentenced

Yet another morning that feels like this

Yet another life's bitter kissIt has been like this for I don't know how long
I only know that at some point

it all went wrongI don't remember much from last night but still far more than I would like toI'm floating downstream that damned river againWhat can I do now except continue

and open a bottle once more

What can I do now except see this through and float with the stream, off the shore

- see where the river will take meWhen I needed you, you weren't there now I need booze like I need the air that I breatheWith each drink I'm drifting further away from your world the further off I get the harder it will be to returnIt has been like this for I don't know how long

I only know that at some point

it all went wrongFloating downstream that damned river again

The river that's distilled from premium grainWhat can I do now except continue
and open a bottle once more

and float with the stream, off the shore

- see where the river will take me
- see where the river will take me
