Recall Last Call

The Craig Walter Band

Recall Last Call

There was a sign on the wall that warned me
Youâ€™d be picking â€˜em up way before two.
I should have been drinkinâ€™ but instead I was thinkinâ€™
As if I had nothing better to do.

I paid the jukebox to play all my favorites
But it played all her favorites instead.
Iâ€™ll make it worth your trouble if you make that a double
And ainâ€™t that clock set ten minutes ahead.

And the lights come on like a sunrise
And the sane folks have long gone to bed.

Recall last callâ€¦because I canâ€™t recall last call
I should have remembered but I guess I forgot
That I came to forget about it all
Iâ€™ll put money in your till and write you into my will
I know youâ€™ve heard it all
Recall last call.

The cleaning crew is outside the doorway
And the waitress is tapping her feet.
Sheâ€™s rolling her eyes as Iâ€™m telling my lies
And if I stand up sheâ€™s gonna take my seat.

I need to make this town one beer smaller
I need to make those memories fade.
I know all things must pass but donâ€™t take my glass
And Iâ€™ll deal with the cards that I played.

I promise I wonâ€™t tell you my story
If you promise you wonâ€™t tell me yours.

Recall last callâ€¦because I canâ€™t recall last call
I should have remembered but I guess I forgot
That I came to forget about it all
Iâ€™ll put money in your till and write you into my will

I know youâ€™ve heard it all
Recall last call.
