Tractor Beam Blues

Sam Roberts

The blushing city meets the morning sky
If you were indiscreet nobody asking why
I'm leaving home to hurry back again
You're not alone, I'll be waiting for you at the end
Don't want loose friends not worth defending
I'm tired of dead endsI can't pretend it was
Gravity that was dragging us down
It's only gravity that's dragging us downIs love enough?
Yes it is
Is hope enough?
I hope it is
Are we close enough?
Is this the best it's ever gonna get
Is love enough?
Yes it is
Is hope enough?
I hope it is
Are we close enough?
One more push cause we just ain't there yetBring on the night sky,oh! Bring me back again
We counted satellites and stars every one of them
Bring on what follows
We always said it was
Gravity that was dragging us down
It's only gravityThese years are the years
Don't go waste them all waiting for another time
These years are the years
Don't go waste them all waiting for another time
These years are the years
Don't go waste them all waiting for another time
These years are the years
Don't go waste them all waiting for another timeIs love enough?
Yes it is
Is hope enough?
I hope it is
Are we close enough?
Is this the best it's ever gonna get
Is love enough?
Yes it is
Is hope enough?

I hope it is
Are we close enough?'Cause it's only
Gravity that was dragging us down
It's only gravity that was dragging us down
It's only gravity that was dragging us down
It's only gravity that was dragging us down
