

Fugue State

Bob Mould

A trail of fog and vapor
It beads upon the green
Under a cloud of doubt
The rain begins to freeze I pull apart the trauma
And push against gravity
I'm feeling stuck
Between these frequencies When someone tries to calm me
I turn away in fear
The past is shaking my foundation
I sweep the floors Each morning, I sweep it underneath
What I'm feeling doesn't seem so clear
Everywhere I go, I'm not breathing
And do I know why I'm doing? Are you in my way? Why am I bleeding?
Everyone I know is past believing
Everywhere I go, everyone I know
Sweep it every day, sweep it all away Abandon memory, a lost identity
And moving at a glacial pace The static scraping sound
Of an intermittent town
Change the channel
Of this empty space Everywhere I go, I'm not breathing
And do I know why I'm doing?
Everywhere I go, everyone I know
Sweep it every day, sweep it all away
