

Whatever Else Happens

Declan O'Rourke

It was morning,
In a summer breeze and the sun was in the sky,
Trees were swaying,
You were beautiful and I asked you not to cry

Then the moment came for a soft farewell,
I kissed you and you shed a few,
I kept a tissue of your tears,
For a souvenir but I will take care of them for you,

What ever else happens I will come back for you,
What ever else happens I will come back for you,

Who knows baby,
What make a love begin between a woman and a man could be made to be,
Baby youâ€™ll make it be, itâ€™s not something I understand,
Perhaps itâ€™s like the way things happen everyday, mostly be accident,
No mistaken though sure as the wind that blows I will see your face again,

What ever else happens I will come back for you,
What ever else happens I will come back for you,

I promised you I would return; if you wait for me I will return,
So if youâ€™re missing me like Iâ€™m missing you and youâ€™re trying to be strong,
Just keep missing me like in missing you, you wont be missing me too long,

What ever else happens I will come back for you
What ever else happens I will come back for you
What ever else happens I will come back for you
What ever else happens I will come back for you
